

Digital Home to the Rescue... Timing is everything!

(Great experiences from DHT)
(Case study #137)
December 15, 2007

We recently completed another home in the Chicago area and thought it would be worth sharing. This family was referred to Digital Home Technologies by another one of our satisfied clients.

The couple both work long hours, knew what they wanted, and did not have the time to shop around. They had some of the projects started, but there were exposed wires, and many components in various states of completion.

Their main interests included...

- IPOD music and video on each floor.
- Great-looking cost-effective video displays.
- Clean and user-friendly operation.
- And, by the way, they needed it completed within one week...

"before"

Fast-forward two weeks...

We have a very happy client! We walked in to see wires hanging out of the wall, phones working in a few rooms, poor internet access, and a new Plasma sitting on a cabinet. Now, the wires are all organized and out-of-sight in a new wiring cabinet, the Plasma TV looks great mounted over their fireplace, and there's a handheld LCD remote for each floor, that simplifies control of room volume, video and music selections. Integrated in the walls of each room is a great-sounding pair of speakers. You would hardly notice them until you hear them, they blend so perfectly with the décor.

"before"

The completed project

Dear John,

We had our first dinner party last night and thus, our first chance to show off our beautiful new A/V system. Once again we want to express our appreciation for everything you and your team at Digital Home Technologies accomplished, and by "everything" we mean:

-- Your patient consideration & expert guidance of our (ever evolving!) plans;
-- Your extremely high level of professionalism and attention to detail regarding not only the selection, placement and installation of equipment but also the need to meet deadlines and to show up on time!; and

-- Your unwavering focus on making both the installation process and the resulting system user friendly and trouble-free.

Maybe the strongest overall impression you've left us with is that we now have a reliable, expert resource for all of our home technology needs for years to come!

Best Regards,
Clisson & Tricia in Chicago

Plasmas and LCD's have been tied into three separate Surround Sound systems discretely installed for a clean, clutter free environment, giving enough room for their art work and making for a very satisfied customer.

This is not the same house it was before Digital Home Technologies went to work. It is now more entertaining, convenient, and valuable.

Sincerely,

John P. Goldenne

John P. Goldenne
Digital Home Technologies

You can find more information on our on our website www.adigitalhome.com, While you're there, you can sign up for our quarterly newsletter or order a copy of our free report, "Looking for a new flat panel TV? Which technology is best for you?" Of course, you can call me directly, or my expert sales consultants, Kevin or Mike, if you'd like to discuss the possibilities for your home. We would enjoy hearing from you. Our number is (847) 776-5063.